

Open borders – no borders: Hohenschönhausen for all!

Hohenschönhausen, a suburb on the edge of the more and more globalized and ever so cosmopolitan city of Berlin. But how cosmopolitan is this city really? What does it mean to us that people are accommodated in „camps of first asylum“ – just around the corner in the neighbourhood. People who – because of their migration background – are not allowed the same rights and privileges as those who have the „right“ passport which says: You are a citizen of the European Union.

The „fortress of Europe“ is being sealed off more and more, and that means that more and more people are being kept out of the European Union. The unwanted people who manage to reach the outer borders of the EU against all odds are in a for a life deprived of basic rights and freedoms, their mobility restricted to a narrowly defined area.

What European passport holders would regard as a remote reality is represented by a void in our neighbourhood. A void consisting of people we are not aware of, whose sufferings, desires and gestures we don't see – as in the case of the residents of the camp of first asylum in Degnerstrasse 82 in Berlin-Hohenschönhausen. Theirs is the life of refugees and migrants whose residential status is uncertain. Theirs is the life of those who are confronted with racist normality every day.

We don't want to accept this estrangement! We want a life for these people based on the principles of mutuality, freedom of association and diversity at all levels! We don't want people in our neighbourhood to be deprived of their rights just because they don't have the right nationality.

Therefore, we call on everyone to meet in the garden of the Youth Centre „Die Arche“ on 18 September 2010 to exchange ideas, learn about each other and have a good time while at the same time trying to achieve more solidarity. By inviting you to take part in a varied and interesting programme we want to use this day to break the everyday routine of exclusion and deprivation of rights.

For a self-determined life with full rights and no exclusion for all!
Hohenschönhausen for all!
No more racist discrimination!
For free choice of residence!
